On making inquiries as to the cause of this proceeding, this lady found that a superstition exists among the peasants in that part, that if a person with a sore be taken secretly to a corpse, the dead hand passed over the sore place, and the bandage afterward dropped upon the coffin during the reading of the burial service, perfect cure will be the result. This woman had a child who had a bad leg, and she had followed, this superstition, with a firm belief in its efficacy. The world is full or charlatans asking public attention to patent inventions for the mitigation of suffering. Everything claiming power to do good should be from a reputable source, otherwise it is open to suspicion. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., affirms that his medicine, "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy," is the best article of its kind ever produced. Hence it is only just to the public that he refer to his record as a physician and surgeon. Among the capital operations performed by him are: Amputation of the thigh-bone in the case of Abraham Elsworth, Port Ewen, Ulster Co., N. Y.; amputation of the arm, case of Mrs. Edward Meyers, of Rondout, N. Y., and the operation of lithotomy (removal of stone from bladder), in the case of Simon Tietsell, of Kingston, and the removal of the eye for Oscar Craigg, of Kosendale, Ulster Co., N. Y.
